this book deals with the processes and theories involved in managing military organisations in both peacetime and crisis conditions examining the challenges faced by policymakers and military commanders in conducting military operations this book considers the benefits of conventional management and organisation theory for the military at the same time these essays recognise that the military should be considered as a highly individual organisation operating in exceptional circumstances this awareness of the differences between the military and other organisations generates important lessons not only for the military but also for general organisations as it teaches them how to cope in exceptional hyper conditions these theoretical lessons are illustrated by case studies and experiences from recent military operations such as those in iraq and afghanistan this book will be of great interest to students of military studies security studies and organizational studies joseph soeters chairs the department of management and organization studies and defence economy at the netherlands defense academy and he is a professor in organizational sociology at tilburg university paul c van fenema is an associate professor of organization studies at the netherlands defence academy and tilburg university robert beeres is an associate professor in the field of defence accounting and control business administration at the netherlands defence academy and at nyenrode business school siege warfare and military organization in the successor states is the first study to comprehensively treat an aspect of byzantine western early islamic slavic and steppe military history within the framework of common descent from roman military organization to 800 ad this not only encompassed the army proper but also a greater complex of client management private military retinues labor obligations and civilian conscription in urban defense that were systematically developed by the romans around 400 and survived to be adopted and adapted by all successors the result was a common post roman military culture suitable for more restrained economic circumstances but still able to maintain defend and attack city walls with skills rivalling those of their roman forebears first published in 1998 this is volume vi of the eighteen in the sociology of work and organization series the author of the present book belongs to the sociological tradition that starting from montesquieu includes such thinkers as herbert spencer emile durkheim and max weber the idea formulated by montesquieu is that there are important relations of interdependence amongst the various features of social life that characterize different societies and he applied this idea in an attempt to discover the relations between the laws of society and other features of social life the form of government the religion the economic institutions usages of various kinds and geographical environment history has often confirmed that it is not superior weapons but superior organizations that are the most effective factor in achieving military success in light of this consideration kevin d stringer s new work proposes how the u s military can best be restructured to conduct military operations other than war as they are known in doctrinal terms such reform is central to meeting the demands of homeland defense and smaller scale contingencies including nation building and stability operations foreign military formations present models for peace operations irregular warfare and other missions as well as counterterrorism law enforcement and border control the models considered drawn from tactical units in britain denmark germany israel norway rhodesia russia and switzerland are selected as best practice examples for transforming the u s armed forces for future missions both at home and abroad the author describes the categories of military operations other than war in the context of force structure requirements for homeland defense and irregular warfare each chapter aligns foreign tactical organizations with these military operations to identify appropriate formations to enhance the u s army this issue of future organizational structure is crucial to the debate over the quadrennial defense review the pentagon report to congress on emerging threats and the future role of the national guard changes in existing force structure will have significant implications for the conduct of stabilization operations in iraq and afghanistan as well as responses by the active and reserve components to domestic emergencies chris demchak explores the reasons why military machines surprise their users and how they can change both the complexity and effectiveness of tactical organizations she uses the army s experiences with its m1 abrams tank as well as other examples to explain the interaction of complex technology and militaries that seek to control uncertainty under some conditions demchak demonstrates complexity in critical machines induces increased complexity in the organizations that use them and can produce an army different from the one that was intended drawing on organization theory and her data she argues that understanding this interaction will heavily influence whether armed forces reductions savings and modernization produce rapid successful military organizations or lethally unpredictable ones mercenaries have been active in battle from the beginning of military history and as private armies and military support firms they are a major component of warfare today security military advice training logistics support policing technological expertise intelligence transportation all are outsourced to a greater or lesser degree in the u s military however privatization is not a uniquely american phenomenon countries as diverse as saudi arabia and australia rely on privatization in one form or another historically heads of state politicians and other administrators have justified use of mercenaries on the basis of their effectiveness and cost savings these reasons and others continue to serve as rationales for use of private military companies in military strategy mercenaries a guide to private armies and private military companies provides a comprehensive survey and guide to mercenary forces entrepreneurs and corporations active on the international military scene today including a concise history of mercenaries and private armies on land sea and in the air narrative chapters are amply supplemented by sidebars including biographies of major figures key statistics historical and current documents contracts and legislation on private armies and outsourced military services each chapter includes a bibliography of books journal articles and web sites and a general bibliography concludes the entire work this work examines the ability of existing and evolving pmc regulation to adequately control private force and it challenges the capacity of international law to deliver accountability in the event of private military company pmc misconduct from medieval to early modern history private soldiers dominated the military realm and were fundamental to the waging of wars until the rise of a national citizen army today pmcs are again a significant force performing various security logistics and strategy functions across the world unlike mercenaries or any other form of irregular force pmcs acquired a corporate legal personality a legitimising status that alters the governance model of today drawing on historical examples of different forms of governance the relationship between neoliberal states and private military companies is conceptualised here as a form of a shared governance it reflects states reliance on pmcs relinquishing a degree of their power and transferring certain functions to the private sector as non state actors grow in authority wielding power and making claims to legitimacy through self regulation other sources of law also become imaginable and relevant to enact regulation and invoke responsibility
